

Highlights

Day 1: From Reykjahlíð village at Mývatn lake we head to the other side of the it, passing unique places like the explosive crater Hverfjall and the strange pillars of Dimmuborgir, which may make you wonder why on earth Lord of the rings was shot in New Zealand. In the afternoon we reach the river Kráká where we camp.

Distance: 18-22 km Walking time: 8-10 hrs

Day 2: Following the river we slowly enter the highlands; all habitable land lies behind us now. The river offers variety of small and it also supports various birds and vegetation which will become increasingly scarce. At the end of the day we camp in a cozy green spot, the last one before we enter the great deserts of Ódáðahraun.

Distance: 16-18 km Walking time: 6-8 hrs

Day 3: We leave the river and start crossing some plains - mountains rising slowly at the horizon. And. after some more of old lava fields we arrive at Suðurárbotnar water sources situated at the edge of the great lava and sand desert Ódáðahraun, which we enter only to find a neat little hut BOTNI where we stay the night.

Distance: 16-18 km Walking time: 6-8 hrs
